

Service Provider Program

The High Technology Development Corporation's Service Provider Program helps high tech companies access consultants across a variety of different fields.

The Service Provider Program is based on public-private sector partnerships between HTDC and experienced business professionals. All providers in the program should have prior experience with start-up companies in technology and related industries. They should be well aware of the challenges faced by fledgling companies in their first few years of business.

Benefits of joining the SPP program:

- Additional venue to market your company through workshops and HTDC's website;
- Opportunity to mentor and increase clientele;
- Credibility; and
- IT'S FREE!

The program has two categories that providers are welcome to apply for: the Referral Service Provider or Affiliate Service Provider category. Although both categories require providers to offer workshops in their area of expertise, participate in HTDC company review committees when invited, and be listed on a public website, the Affiliate Service Provider category is for those who are willing to offer special discounts to HTDC clients. In return Affiliates will receive additional marketing on our website and the opportunity to potentially receive more business from HTDC clientele.

All providers interested in joining the Service Provider Program may download the application from www.htdc.org
